Owen D. Young Says No
Japan's Proud Army
Forty at a Cock Fight
Who Has a Bright Smile?

By Arthur Brisbane

THE POLITICAL NEWS of the day is that Owen D. Young has removed himself from the possibility of a Democratic nomination for the presidency, emphatically and sincerely. In a letter to John Crowley, publisher of the Little Falls Times, Mr. Young's home paper, Mr. Young concludes with these words:

"May I say definitely and finally that I cannot, for reasons which are no contrivance as not to be open to argument, accept the nomination for the presidency, if made."

Nothing could be more final than that. The statement will shock many influential politicians who have been working in Mr. Young's interest, although apparently without his knowledge or approval, and have felt sure that Mr. Young would be nominated.

The Japanese army is high spirited, its officers feel that they should rule, not any hazy-pammy civil government. To express their views, a group of 15 officers murdered the Prime Minister of Japan, Inukai, 77 years old, wounding him while forcing their way into the old man's house. In connection with this achievement, battle were bombed.

When the work was done, the is that had carried on the ideas of the Japanese military forces surrendered.

Members of the Japanese cabinet, and other high officials, know of "societies" vowed to murder that would kill them off like rats, should they offend Japanese ideas.

The old man, murdered on Sunday, probably knew after the Shanghai truce, which ended the army, that his life would not last long. He showed courage as he died.

What the Japanese do with their prime minister, their army and their navy, is their business, as long as they did not hurt us.

It is not for me to criticize, but to observe events and learn what we can.

We have little right or inclination to criticize other nations in view of our own sea wave, which is not exactly based on patriotism.

Its foundations are bootlegging created by prohibition, and it makes Japan a center of dera of patriotism seem mild.

In northern New York 40 men were arrested at a cock fight. The police got 15 live cocks, seven dead ones, killed in battle for the amusement of "primers" standing around the cockpit. Fighting cocks have their natural spurs cut off and sharp steel needles are attached to the stumps. The thrust of a needle through the brain ends the fight.

The birds will endure unlimited suffering from other hands and fight to the death for us to realize that that is one favorite sport of English lords, or that serious and sharp steel needles are attached to the stumps. The thrust of a needle through the brain ends the fight.

It was necessary for them to save salvage bunks tear the muzzles of miserable tethered bulls.

An intelligent advertiser offers substantial prizes to the brightest smile in America. Send a snapshot, and you will be the brightest smile, or bright enough, you get a prize. Joseph P. Day, New York City, who can smile, should enter that contest.

Anybody who can smile, should enter that contest. As Mr. Day was smiling recently, deserves a prize.

To be cheerful while conditions are pleasant is easy. It takes real character to smile through 1932.

An admirable old American shipbuilder, Capt. Dollar, is dead in his 88th year. Dead also is William H. Todd. One built ships on the Pacific coast, the other on the Atlantic. Capt. Dollar was an immigrant from Scotland. William H. Todd was the son of an Irish immigrant. The two men paid hundreds of millions of American labor, each worked until the day of his death. BUT BOTH WOULD BE EXCLUDED FROM THE COUNTRY UNDER OUR PRESENT IMMIGRATION LAWS, that would keep out such men as have built this country.

Historians of the future, who investigate original documents now prepared by the accords, Klein, Hinds and Finkle, investigating details of the Swedish match man, with American financiers, will find interesting facts. Kruger was to get fifty million dollars here from financiers, who had the slightest chance of making a cent.

Stock that sold for a hundred dollars a share in 1900 is now a tenth of a cent. Outfit American high finance got for its money an American high finance company, so arranged that it could not make any profit.

This country was certainly drunk with money and was taking dreams for reality in 1929. It is probably just as well that the nation woke up.

Fuller, Ely Hurl Fiery Names at Each Other

Former Governor Alvan T. Fuller today attacked Gov. Ely in the Worcester turnpike-railway competition talk, describing him as the "greatest louse this state has indulged in for a long while."

Gov. Ely made immediate reply in a letter to Fuller in which he accused the latter of being a "character assassination of character" whose constructive ability is exercised by the hands of the hands of Ely's enemies.

The letter was written in answer to an inquiry by Youngman as to Fuller's position in the trolley case.

Fuller's attack on Gov. Ely was broadcasted to include Daniel H. Coakley when he added the opinion that "in many of these affairs, while the voice is Jacob Ely's, the hands are the hands of Ely's enemies."

The letter was written in answer to an inquiry by Youngman as to Fuller's position in the trolley case.

THREE ASKED TO IDENTIFY VICTIM

Attempt to Link the Slain Man With the "Lone Wolf" Attacks in Pawtucket

Taunton, May 17—Three girl victims of a "Lone Wolf" attacker will be asked today to identify photographs of John Runkley, ex-convict, whose mutilated body was found behind a stone wall on a North Street farm.

State Detective Francis W. Cleary, in charge of the investigation here, today sent Joseph William Smith late Pawtucket to question the victims, all of whom live in the Dartmouth section of that city, where the slain man made his home with relatives.

His action was in line with the theory that Runkley, who served 12½ years in Rhode Island state prison for an attack on a young girl, was slain by relatives or friends of one of his girl victims.

Descriptions of the assailant fall in each case with that of the slain man, even to the leather coat wrapped about his mutilated body and the cap which covered a skull fractured in three places.

But when it came to the heart, medical examiner, also showed a deep knife wound in the back which indicated the weapon had been twisted in the wound.

Runkley had been sought for questioning by Pawtucket police in connection with a case.

RANSOM BOAT, KIDNAP CHIEF ARE TRAILED

Breckenridge, Acting Flier, Tells the Grand Jury of the Hoax Ransom Payment

BULLETIN

Trenton, N. J., May 17—Col. E. Norman Schwarzkopf today announced that the police were on the trail of "a particular individual," as head of the Lindbergh kidnapper-gang.

"We have one individual in mind," Schwarzkopf said, "but we do not feel at liberty to give out his description. We feel that it would be misleading and tend to confuse those whom we have requested to interrogate prisoners in jails throughout the country."

Pictures and Other Story on Page 3

New York, May 17—Heartened by possession of definite leads, the hunt for the Lindbergh baby kidnaper-murderers shot forward today with intensified vigor along a wide territory.

In New York evidence in the case was placed before the Bronx County grand jury by Dist. Atty. Charles B. McLaughlin.

Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsky" Lindbergh negotiator, who paid $50,000 hoax ransom to the teller of a gang, wanted to appear before the grand jury to his grand jury appointment prevented.

"Jafsky" was to have viewed the police line-up of crooks, but his grand jury appointment prevented.

F. Breslin, who is presenting the case, that he had some important letters to take care of and would like to get away as soon as possible. However, the grand jury kept him for an hour and a half. He represented Col. Lindbergh, the latter will likely be spared the ordeal of testifying. Others named today include: Dr. Condon, who on at least one occasion acted as chauffeur for Dr. Condon; Max Rosenbaum, owner of a Bronx restaurant patronized by Dr. Condon; and Joseph Person, believed to be the taxi cab chauffeur who delivered a note from the alleged kidnappers to Condon. Rosenbaum was in the jury room for 30 minutes and Gaglio for 10 minutes.

From Maine to the Bermudas, coast guard vessels today searched the sea for a known mackerel schooner identified by John Hughes Curtis, chief of the Norfolk, Va., group of negotiators, as carrying the group of ransom seekers with whom he made contact.

Description of Vessel Is Given to Hunters

Capt. Randolph Ridgely, Jr., commander of the coast guard, New York district, said yesterday in definite orders to find a boat painted black, with green and white cabin, a two-masted schooner, and an auxiliary power plant with a 25-horsepower engine. The suspected ship with the supposed kidnappers and elements of army-bred Charles Lindbergh aboard, was reported seen off this city as recently as two weeks ago, some time before the infant's body was found in a shallow grave four and a half miles from the Sourland Mountain estate near Hopewell, N. J., of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Jasfin Looks Over Crooks in Galleries

The age "Jasfin" spent many hours today in the galleries of the Bronx and in Westchester County yesterday, hoping to identify the man to whom he found the ransom money over the graveyard wall, or his four companions, whom he met on a boat off Throgs Neck, the Bronx.

"I am on an important mission. Things are getting hot," was the cryptic remark he gave interviewers after his activities during the day.

Again Asks Bankers to Watch for Bills

The state police have turned back to the ransom money all bills of five, ten and twenty-dollar denominations in the hope it may lead to important arrests. The serial numbers of all the ransom currency were kept, and many were supplied to banks throughout America. The government was requested today to urge banks to bankers the importance of keeping a close watch for this money, only a few bills of which have appeared. Much talk and many rumors, most important, according to many confidential sources, are being spread tonight and early day but led to no important results. Confidential police officials of New York and New Jersey terminated at the Lindbergh home early this morning without any announcement as to its purpose or results.

The chief hopes of all investigators today is to find the mackerel schooner believed to have aboard her members of the gang with which Lindbergh conducted his ill-fated ransom negotiations. Confidence was expressed that sooner or later the ship would be found and seized. When that day arrives, if the belief of Dr. Condon is realized, the authorities for the first time will have taken into custody men in a position to shed considerable light on the kidnappers.

Jails Are Searched For Hiding Killers

It was Col. Schwarzkopf's theory that the perpetrators of the crime that rocked the world may seek to escape the tightening search for them by seeking a minor commitment in jail on a minor offense. Schwarzkopf has asked execution of all states to check up on the record of all inmates incarcerated since the night of the kidnapping. March 1. Following a conference at Trenton, N. J., between Governor A. Harry Moore, New Jersey, and the state and prosecuting authorities of the state engaged on the case, Moore announced Schwarzkopf would remain in charge of all police activities. This was generally taken as a full answer by the governor to many criticisms leveled at the state police head since the kidnapping.

Lindbergh Doubts Sleeping Robe Genuine

Prosecutor Erwin Marshall of Mercer County, where the child's body was discovered accidentally last week, was named to take over the prosecution end of the Lindbergh case.

Moore also asked Schwarzkopf to communicate with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice in Washington, with a view to the federal forces co-operating in the hunt.

The original ransom note left by the kidnappers, which contained the intricate symbol for their identification, and letters purportedly from the kidnappers sent to Dr. Condon before he paid the ransom with Lindbergh's authorization, will be examined again by J. V. Haring, handwriting expert.

This may help establish whether the kidnappers and the ransom collectors consisted of the same group. Lindbergh, Commissioner Mulrooney revealed, told him a few days after the payment was made he was not inclined to put much faith in the genuineness of a re-sleeping suit sent to Condon as evidence that he dealt with the kidnappers, but that he agreed to the ransom payment because the mysterious signature of the kidnappers and murderers within reach of the law.

A bundle of baby clothes was found near the spot where the Lindbergh infant's body was discovered. Police appeared to attach little significance to it, however. One story hinted checked is that of John Imboden, Trenton baker, who said he saw a closed car about three weeks ago near the wooded spot where the baby's body was found. A man and a woman occupying the auto, he said, acted suspiciously.

More information was also sought by Schwarzkopf on William Allen, negro, who found the body when he left his truck to go into the copse, and whose name appeared in a list on the leg of a piece picked up at Louisville, N. Y. Allen signed his name on the number and was impossible to

ANNE TO WAIT IN SOURLANDS FOR STORK

Resigned to Her Grief, She Wants New Baby Born Where the Other Met Tragic End

By DOROTHY ROE

Hopewell, N. J., May 17 (US)—The Lindberghs will stay at Hopewell.

Reports that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his grief-stricken young wife would leave America to seek the quiet of a French chateau for the birth of their second child, expected late in August, were denied today by a close friend of the family, who said:

"Anne doesn't want to go away. She wants her baby to be born in the same house where little Charlie played. She and Col. Lindbergh may leave Hopewell for a few days, to rest, but they do not intend to give up their home."

WONT RUN AWAY

Thus is demonstrated by the Flying Colonel and his young wife the staunch spirit of America's pioneers. They know that they cannot escape tragedy by running away from it.

The fact that the most horrible ordeal of their lives has taken place in the Hopewell home, from which their first-born was kidnapped and to which his ashes were returned Saturday, will not drive them away. They will stand their ground, and try to forget the harrowing experiences of the last two and a half months. They will try to remember their murdered baby as he was when they last saw him, rosy and safe in his crib.

RESIGNS TO FATE

Anne's first hysteria of grief has passed. She has resigned herself to the fact that her baby is dead, and that she cannot bring him back. And her father, the late Dwight W. Morrow, one of America's outstanding statesmen, taught her that a Morrow must not crumple under tragedy.

So the gallant young mother now is turning her thoughts to the baby that is to be born. And if fear grips her heart for his safety in the isolated home from which her first little son was stolen, she does not admit it.

Detroit, May 17 (AP)—Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, mother of the Flying Colonel, was back in her chemistry classroom at Case Technical high school today, after a brief wait at the home of her son in New Jersey.

PREMIER IS SLAIN BY 9 ZEALOTS

By FRAZIER HUNT

Tokio, May 17—Two officers of the Japanese imperial navy, with the assistance of seven military cadets, were the men who actually assassinated Premier Inukai.

The official investigation which brought these disclosures, confirming suspicions that regular members of the navy or officers were involved, also uncovered details of strange and solemn Samurai rites which preceded the assassination.

MET AT SHRINE

The nine zealots who used pistols and bombs to accomplish their ends, met at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Yamanaka shrine for Japanese soldiers and sailors who died for their country.

The shrine is the most sacred in all Japan.

After morning rites, like ancient Samurai warriors offering prayers before going into battle, the misguided youths, swathed in the shrine and then quietly entering three facials, started the premier's official residence.

RUSH RESIDENCE

The nine zealots hurriedly entered the residence, the Premier's home, and demanded an interview with the premier.

Two unarmed police barred the entrance. One was shot fatally. The other was seriously wounded.

As the men rushed inside the house, an old woman servant, hearing the firing, and seeing the officers,

Betty Gow Rumors Spread Again

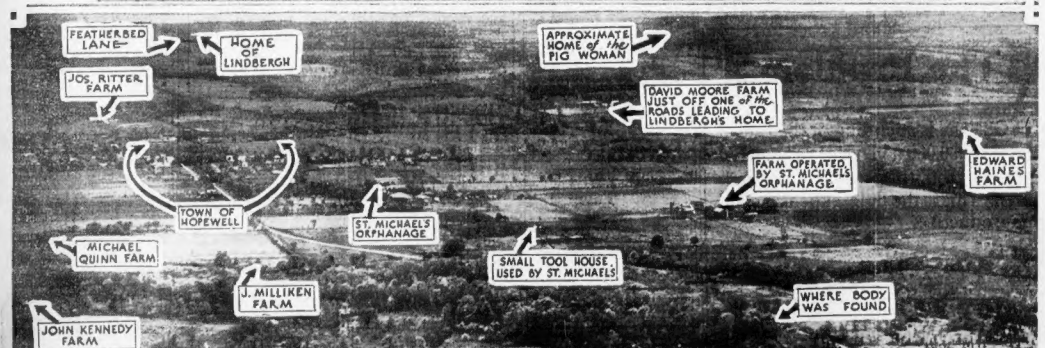

New York, May 17 (AP)—Rumors involving Betty Gow, nurse of the murdered Lindbergh baby, continued to circulate today, apparently broadcast by some obscure station whose identity the leading broadcasting companies were unable to check.

Today's story, denied by all official and authentic sources, was that Miss Gow had come forward throwing the baby out the window of the Lindbergh home. She had said repeatedly that she was not involved in the kidnapping.

It was then reported that the country lawyer was that Miss Gow had decommitted suicide. A telephone call to the Lindbergh home brought the information that she was alive and in good health.

Other fantastic rumors also circulated.

PRAY THAT DYING MOTHER WILL LIVE FOR SON'S FIRS MASS

PLANNED TO BE SAID AT HER BEDSIDE

Whole of Clinton Sends Up Plea That She Be Spared Until Next Saturday

Clinton, May 17.—"James—James—my son—here." Words faintly spoken, incoherent phrases, flashes of recognition and then a lapse into temporary oblivion.

A dying mother today fought a valiant battle to stay alive long enough to hear her son celebrate the first mass—the one who on Friday will be ordained a priest in the Dominican order.

Children of St. John's school today offered up prayers for Mrs. Hannah Joyce, who might live until Saturday to realize her life's ambition.

They prayed that she may be the young man she dreamed about and lived for offer up his first mass at her bedside.

SPECIAL DISPENSATION

Ever since James C. Joyce began his studies for the priesthood 12 years ago it has been his mother's one desire to be present when he said his first mass.

A few days ago the 60-year-old woman was stricken with a shock, her life was despaired of. It was feared she would die without the answer to the prayers and hopes of her whole life.

By special dispensation of Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary, of Springfield, the priest, who would be permitted to say his first mass at the bedside of his dying mother.

It tears thick down his youthful cheeks as the words of consecration pass from his lips, they will hear of joy that God spared his mother's life long enough for her to see and hear her son.

WHOLE TOWN INTERESTED

It has become a concern of this town—the life of Mrs. Joyce. In homes and churches friends and strangers alike, all who have heard the details, are praying for the woman and the realization of her dream.

At the mother's house today it was said that her life is in "the hands of God."

"We hope for her life," a friend spoke, "We hope she will live until her father James comes home to pray for her."

Union of Methodist Churches Predicted

WHEELER, WOOLSEY SPLIT LAID TO GIRL

Dorothy Lee Is Named in Rift Between Famous Comedy Team of the Movies

Hollywood, May 17.—The parting of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, famous comedy team, was all over a woman. It was the blonde beauty of Dorothy Lee, third member of the team, according to the gossip here today, that caused the two to split.

Bob's dejected insistence that they part "the best of friends," shortly after Bert begged the train for New York yesterday, was taken as a sign of sympathy for the woman who had been a picture at Columbia in a few days.

Dorothy is leaving for New York, she said, in Bert's car.

Way, where the two are planning to make stage appearances together.

"Wheeler and I," said Woolsey, "never have formed a team at any time. He had his manager, and I had mine. I had no intention of staying with him. Saturday we went over the terms of the Columbia contract, discussed the conditions and agreed to make a manager advised."

SMITH RELIEF PLAN PRAISED NATION-WIDE

New York, May 17 (AP)—Approval and praise were received from all parts of the country today by former Governor Alfred E. Smith for his challenging plan of action by the federal Government to relieve the prevailing economic situation.

Calling on Congress to target "politics and sectionalism," Smith, in an outspoken radio address last night, demanded the federal budget be balanced, urged adoption of a manufacturing sales tax and modification of the Volstead Act to permit legislation of tight money and beer.

As another stimulant to business and industry, Smith pressed for an extensive government public works program to be financed through a property bond issue.

Private business and reorganization of the Federal Government, as proposed by President Hoover, are one step in this direction, were urged by Smith himself a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He declared it the patriotic duty of every member of Congress "from now on until unemployment has been reduced to a minimum, to discourage and avoid all blue, cabal, insouciance and economic tactics, by whatever name they may be called, which hinder legislation, increase the depression, increase business danger on credit at home and abroad."

He assailed those who, opposing the sales tax, would "lead the working man to believe that his condition in life can be bettered by the slogan, 'work the rich'."

That phrase, Smith said, "means 'work capital, and everyone knows you cannot work capital without sucking labor at the same time.'"

Smith vigorously opposed a cash bonus payment to veterans.

He advocated defeat of the President's plan to relieve unemployment through funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but urged Congress to give Hoover "a free hand to provide aid for productive public works of states and municipalities."

HIGH SPOTS IN SMITH SPEECH

Ex-Governor Favors Sales and Beer Tax in Plan for Economic Relief

A partial text of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith's radio speech follows:

The first duty of the Congress, exercising ordinary good business judgment, is to use every means at its command to reduce the cost of the government. I believe it to be the duty of every member of Congress, without fear or favor, to go to the extreme limit in slashing from the appropriation bills all unnecessary appropriations of the public money.

FULL POWER NEEDED

So far the action taken by Congress with respect to reorganization of the federal government is not, to my mind, satisfactory.

Under present conditions reorganization must be an executive and not a legislative function, and I am therefore in favor of giving to the President the full responsibility and power which he has asked in the immediate consolidation of Government activities and bureaus.

One of the most important fields of economy in the general public is just beginning to be touched by the proposed revision of the laws relating to veterans.

While I bow to no one in my reverence for and devotion to the men who, in the hour of national peril, offered themselves to the country, I nevertheless hold, and I believe that a majority of the veterans themselves hold, that we must not give a cent more to them than we can afford to appropriate these huge sums in a time of crisis for a favored class.

Let us face the facts. The budget of the United States for 1932 shows that the government is running at a deficit of $1,200,000,000.

FOR SALES TAX

This leads me to the frank and honest statement that I believe in the general manufacturing sales tax to meet the emergency. I think that Congress for Congress to turn it down. I think it should be reconsidered. All during my life and public career I have stood by the ordinary citizen of limited means and revenue of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Opposes the Cash Payment of Bonus to Vets and Urges Change in Dry Law

Everything which has come to my attention on the subject of unemployment since I suggested a relief bonus has confirmed my opinion that unemployment and relief of the distress it has caused cannot be solved by merely throwing them back on the states and municipalities.

My original recommendations contemplated that the federal government would issue public works bonds.

BEST ACTION URGED

Rather than limit unemployment relief in the way suggested by the President, I would strongly recommend and urge the President to give a free hand to provide federal aid for productive public works of states and municipalities as well as for additional federal projects which will bring about the early employment of the largest possible number of men.

Every year general debt and reparations moratorium negotiated by President Hoover last year expires in a few weeks.

Here again, temporarily and to meet the emergency, I believe Congress should empower the President to meet the emergency as he sees fit without congressional action, to the extent necessary, to prevent that moratorium from becoming a real solution can be reached.

REPEAL URGED

Throughout the length and breadth of the land today there emanate from all classes of our people an insistent demand that something be done about the present laws, both constitutional and statutory, with respect to prohibition. The people have awakened to the fact that prohibition is not working.

Pending action by the party conventions, determining party policy with respect to modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it is within the power of Congress to put a more liberal interpretation by statute on what constitutes an intoxicant.

The immediate passage of an amendment to the so-called "Volstead Act," legalizing light wines and beer and providing for their taxation, will produce the results which I believe are essential to the economic relief of the people.

connection with the reign of terror in that city similar to that created by the "Lone Wolf" in Boston six years ago.

The series of attacks terminated with a beating administered to Ruslevic on a lonely Seaboard road late in April.

VICTIM SCHOOL TEACHER

Not until today was it made known that one of the victims was a Pawtucket school teacher and that police had been working quietly for weeks on the description she furnished.

According to the police report, an auto squad rushed to the school teacher's home in answer to a telephone alarm that the attacker had entered her bedroom by a window.

As the man seized her, she and he and he tried to escape through the window. Several nights later police were called to the home of another girl who had been seized from behind by a man as she entered her home in the Dartington section of the city.

GIRL IN PERIL

Detective Clemmey has already questioned Germaine Plante, 15, whose home is only two blocks from the Bellevue ave. house where Ruslevic lived with relatives.

She was attacked by a man on the night of April 21, and he just over the Pawtucket line, and brutally beaten. First reports of a beating given Ruslevic in the vicinity of the attack placed the date of April 21 but relative of the slain man insisted he was beaten a week earlier.

The excitement with which the description given by the girl first prompted Detective Clemmey to make a closer check of his movements in the night he is believed to have been "taken for a ride."

HADY ABOUT DATE

John Zoromski, his 15-year-old grandnephew, told Detective Clemmey that Ruslevic remained at his home for many days during the wounds in his head but he could not recall the exact date when he was brought there.

The boy said his grandnephew left the house on the night of May 3 to buy some tobacco and was never heard from again.

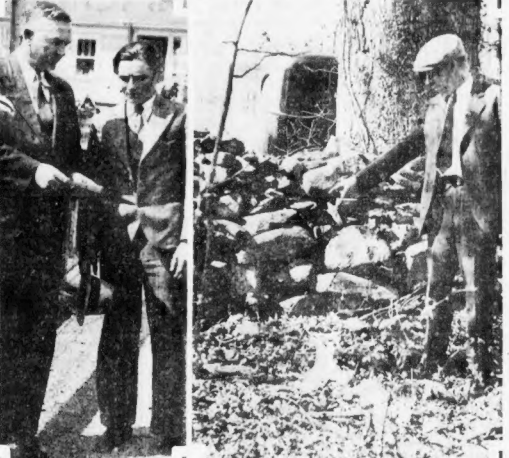

Further mystery was added to the case by the inability of John Principe, Seaboard farmer, to give the date when Ruslevic's head was injured by a blow from a hard instrument, staggered into his home.

REVENGE MOTIVE

Detective Clemmey said today that the murder motive might have been revenge for Ruslevic's attack on a girl as yet unnamed. The earlier beating, he said, might have been committed by two men who upon learning that he was recuperating returned forth and "took him for a ride."

While working on this angle, Clemmey ordered State Trooper William Smith of Rehoboth barracks to pick up two Pawtucket men who were employed by the slain man, for questioning.

V.F.W. LEADER BACKS LOAN

Sacramento, Cal., May 17 (U.S.)—Advocating speedy action by Congress on the constructive proposal for a property loan to finance a huge program of public works, David D. De Cox, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today:

"I have been in favor of Wilson's $15,000,000,000 property loan for nearly a year and my belief in this plan is stronger now than ever before."

"The program would provide employment for millions of Americans, new jobs and forward movement for public works projects which are vitally needed."

"With over one million families service men out of work, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are urging full payment by the government of the adjusted service certificates. I feel that this move and the property loan program would work together as factors of the utmost importance in alleviating the present situation by putting buying power back in the hands of buying people."

"The time has come when the federal government must take a definite hand in meeting our national emergencies."

Mystery Victim BYRO WILL FLY POLE AGAIN

Dear Antares Richard E. Byrd is going back to Little America to fly again over the South Pole—and perhaps beyond.

The explorer revealed today his intent to return to the Antarctic, this time to learn if the south polar region is one or two continents.

"There may be two continents down there," he said. "We believe that one of them probably is as large as this country and the other as the size of Australia."

There is land there, covered with solid ice. Of that I am sure. It floats over the moonlike sea and is jagged rock and barren, frozen areas.

"We're still in the thick of completing the scientific data I gathered before, and until that is finished there'll be no telling just when the second expedition will start."

The lengthy explorer said there would be from 30 to 25 picked men, nearly all of the crew made up of the husky band that went with him into Antarctica previously. There will also be 150 sled dogs, or 90 more than on the first trip.

He will take only one vessel, however, the Bear, a former revenue cutter, which he has purchased, and which will leave the Pacific Coast in June to be reconditioned and outfitted at Boston Navy Yard.

FALSE ARREST COST GIRL, MAN TESTIFIES

Arthur Anderson, 26, of White St., Belmont, just his fiancée and his good standing in the community when Carl Johansson, Swedish vice-consul for Boston, had him arrested for burglary last January. Anderson took a Middlesex court today.

Anderson seeks $5000 damages, alleging false arrest and malicious prosecution. After arrest on charges of burglary and larceny from the Johansson home, where there was a witness, Anderson court found no probable cause against Anderson and released him. The plaintiff testified.

He said he was engaged to a girl at the time but that she "broke it" as a result of his arrest.

Carl Johansson, a nephew of Johansson, was formerly friends, he testified. Carl Johansson used to live in the Johansson home, 43 Waban St., Boston.

The plaintiff said that at the time of the burglary, Anderson was arrested at the same time as Johansson, working with his father, the father, Oscar Anderson, corroborated him.

Carl Johansson testified he and his mother and grandmother were locked out of the Johansson home by the vice-consul, and the plaintiff's attorney told the court Carl Johansson was arrested at the same time as Johansson, and as a result, his son and his uncle, suit being settled out of court.

'HONOR SLAYER' IN N. Y.

MRS. FORTESCUE IN PAROON FIGHT

New York, May 17 (U.S.)—Mrs. Grace Fortescue will seek a congressional pardon for herself and the other defendants in the Honolulu "honor slaying."

Fortescue, 36, New York today said she did not believe she could live with her husband and son-in-law. She said she believed that there would be granted a full pardon for the more committal of sentence which Governor Fuld of Hawaii gave them.

"But we hope for a complete pardon," she said. "If we can't get it, we will go to Congress."

"It won't suit the sentiment that we don't want it," she said. "It was a committal."

Mrs. Fortescue, who says she is a devoted daughter, met her wife of Fred Central Station, and that she already discussed the question of a congressional pardon with cabinet members and senators.

All of them think that it should be granted," she said.

MILLS SCORES 'DOLLAR' BILL

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Senator Mills informed the Senate banking committee today that passage by the House of the Goldborough dollar stabilization bill was a disturbing factor both at home and abroad, and that the Federal Reserve Board is unanimously opposed to it.

The letter was in response to a request that he comment on a Senate bill by Sen. Fletcher of Florida, virtually identical with the Goldborough measure passed by the House.

He pointed out that the Federal Reserve Board and the Secretary of the Treasury restore the purchasing power of the dollar to the 1934 level by currency expansion.

"In my opinion it would not be possible for the government to carry out such a mandate," Senator Mills wrote.

Pair Loot Melrose Home as Neighbors Look On

After robbing a score of homes in Melrose, Arlington, Belmont, and other Greater Boston areas, the two apartment house breakers added another to their long list in Melrose, when they robbed the home of William Murray in West Melrose, 14.

The two men drove up to the front of the house in a light colored sport car with the top down, calmly walked up the stairs of the house and burst into the living room.

Neighbors called police, but before their arrival the two men had left the house with a small amount of loot. Neighbors told police both men were light colored suits and sport shoes.

GIRL'S KIDNAP STORY IS HOAX

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP)—Police said today after a thorough investigation they had found the report that a 15-year-old daughter of a laundry owner, had been kidnapped and held two days until a ransom of $500 had been paid, was untrue.

Lt. Harry Clark of the detective division said the girl was staying at the home of an aunt during the two days she was missing over the week-end.

After questioning her for several hours he said "the story was concocted as a publicity stunt. We first were talked to the girl's aunt, she had been kidnapped. She changed her story and said she had been visiting her aunt."

The story of the alleged kidnapping was first revealed by a reporter who said he learned it from a father, and was then reported in the paper.

The first instance of an attack directed at the British since the communal rioting started occurred today. Edinburgh, Scotland, May 17 (AP)—Fire Chief Methven, who believes firemen of the future will climb down ladders from airplanes instead of up ladders from pavements, today asked the corporation of Edinburgh to construct an airplane taking place from on the top of the new fire station.

YOUNG REFUSAL LAID TO WIFE

New York, May 17 (AP)—Owen D. Young's statement that he "cannot accept the nomination for the presidency if made" was believed by friends of Mr. Young to have been prompted by the fact that his wife is seriously ill.

Mr. Young is said to have "no deep an aversion as to amount to antipathy" toward his husband entering politics.

She has been ill with a heart ailment since the death of her son John, who was killed by a train and recently her illness became more serious.

Young's name was frequently mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination, although he never openly stated his position.

WEIRD CLUES HANDICAP KIDNAP CHASE

motive. That motive was: THRILL!

It was just eight years ago this month that the murder of 11-year-old Bobby Franks, son of a multi-millionaire Chicagoan, horrified the nation.

And it was two brilliant-minded university men, Nathan K. (Nate) Leopold and Richard Loeb, who are now serving life sentences in Joliet penitentiary for that crime.

Detailed examination of that thrill murder of nearly a decade ago shows many points in common with the murder of Baby Lindbergh.

Plot, and most striking of these similarities is this:

By Franks and Baby Lindbergh had both been killed by their auditors when the ransom negotiations were under way.

In the Franks case the search for the murderers went even to foreign countries, and yet the body of the young boy was found, it was in a railroad culvert, less than six miles from his home.

Ransom Demand in Frank Tragedy

In the Lindbergh case the searchers went to Europe seeking either the kidnapped baby or a clue—yet when that boy's body was found it was in a leaf-covered tully, less than five miles from his own cradle.

Bobby Franks had been lured in to a rented automobile by his 10-year-old kidnappers, of whom he knew, and beaten into unconsciousness within five minutes of the time he was in the car.

Baby Lindbergh was kidnapped from his nursery, apparently carried directly in an automobile parked within a few feet of his home, and then, in not more than 10 minutes from that time, authorities believe, beaten to death with some sort of steel instrument.

Bobby Franks' parents were worth millions. Had the kidnapping been a matter of money alone, the ransom to be paid might have been ten times the amount actually asked in the ransom note sent to the Franks home nine hours after his death, and dealing how the demanded $10,000 must be paid.

Parents Wealthy, Ransom Demands Alike

Baby Lindbergh's parents, and more particularly his maternal grandparents are rated financially as having assets for a fortune of at least $20,000,000. In these days when kidnappers, at least professional kidnappers, ask for and get sums of $100,000 or more for far less important hauls, the ransom for the $20,000 asked to return the Lindbergh baby here has been larger. Loeb and Leopold, in their de-

Similarity in Killing of Victims

In both cases the kidnappers, even though their victims had been killed, gave detailed descriptions of the ransom money should be paid.

Loeb and Leopold told the grief-stricken parents of Bobby Franks to have the ransom money in gold, and that the father was to go to a field train, where, in a given compartment for time takes he would find a letter addressed to himself. This letter contained detailed instructions as to where he should stand on the rear platform and when, at a station where he should throw the money off. The newsweekend father failed to remember where he should go on his second instructions, after he received the telephone call at his home and for that ransom alone the ransom money was never paid.

Clothing "Clues" in Both Tragedies

In the Lindbergh case the ransom note detailed a given period of waiting for new instructions, and then, after identification of the kidnappers as such, through later communications to arrange for the payment. These instructions were followed in the let- and the ransom actually paid. Obviously, the baby there being

Automobile Appears in Both Cases

In the Lindbergh case a child, dead, was found near the Lindbergh home, either lost or thrown away. It has been definitely connected as a murder weapon, but neither has any other weapon been found which might be responsible for those compound fractures which caused Baby Lindbergh's death.

In the Franks case a hired girl, automobile, was an outstanding clue. That automobile was finally traced to a car-rental agency and was definitely proved to have been the murder car. Loeb and Leopold (as this) declared they used that car, after establishing credit as the agency, because so many people and rented cars that it would be hard to trace definitely.

Do you inhale?

Certainly...

7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly...the other 3 inhale unknowingly

DO you inhale? Seven out of ten smokers know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this much-avoided subject . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

DOUMER SLAYER SAYS HE WAS 'HYPNOTIZED'

Paris, May 17 (AP)—Dr. Paul Gorgulov, assassin of President Paul Doumer, told an examining magistrate today he was in a "kind of hypnotic sleep" when he committed the crime.

"A mystic force armed my hand," he said. "I had no reason whatever to murder M. Doumer. I was in a kind of hypnotic sleep."

Gorgulov informed Magistrate Fouquier he drank a bottle of cognac before going to the War Veterans' charity exhibition where he shot down the President.

"When the President entered the room," he said, "I fired without hesitating, not knowing what I was doing."

He declared he could tell nothing about the gun he used, because he was too drunk to remember about it. He asserted that while on his way from Monaco to Paris before the assassination, he "tried to ward off the evil spirit" which constantly tried to lead him to murder.

"On my arrival in Paris," he continued, "I went to Notre Dame Cathedral and prayed to God to rid me of the spirit. I fought to the last against this obsession."

JAPANESE FACE ARMY REVOLT ON CABINET

Tokyo, May 17—Japanese politics felt the full power of the mailed fist of the army today when that body declared that a national, non-partisan cabinet must be named or succeed that of Premier Inukai slain Sunday by members of the Pacific side.

ARMY CHIEF IN NOTICE

Plans of political leaders that Home Minister Kishun Suzuki should be elected head of the new government were completely upset by the ultimatum of the military leaders.

Suzuki had been named leader of the party as a means of healing a threatened breach when the military ultimatum was issued.

Army leaders served notice they would refuse to support any cabinet formed on other than national and non-partisan lines. General Masaki, vice-chief of the army staff informed former War Minister General Sadao Araki that the army would refuse to recommend any officers for minister in the new cabinet if it were formed on party lines.

The crisis confronting the country was said to be such that politics be left aside and a "national" government be set up.

CADETS FACE COURT

Reports that the navy had decided to mutilate proved groundless on the basis of an official check-up. All naval bases were found to be quiet.

Admiral Mitsu Otsu, minister of the navy in the Inukai cabinet, issued an order declaring "all naval personnel must observe the utmost caution to prevent a disturbance of the public mind."

Army headquarters announced that 21 cadets who surrendered to the military police Sunday night would soon be tried by a court-martial and dealt with according to military discipline.

2 JUDGES DENY 'JOY-RIDING'

Denver, May 17 (AP)—Two federal judges named by Representative Laguardia as having taken "joy rides" at government expense, deny the charges.

J. Foster Symes of Denver branded the allegations of the New York Republican as "unqualifiedly false," and T. Blake Kennedy of Cheyenne, Wyo., explained why trips were made.

"I know nothing of other cases," Judge Symes said, "but when I was called to New York, last summer, I stayed for three weeks and worked all the time I was there."

"It is quite natural for judges in the more sparsely settled districts to be appointed as assistants in the more densely populated districts," said Judge Kennedy.

"So far as 'joyriding' is concerned, I must confess I know nothing about it."

100 MISSING IN SHIP FIRE

London, May 17 (AP)—Capt. Owen, master of the British steamer Contractor, today radioed to the Evening Standard a graphic description of the rescue of many of the passengers and crew of the new French liner George Phillips, destroyed by fire yesterday in the Gulf of Aden.

About 100 still were missing today, Capt. Owen reported, while 800 were rescued by the Contractor, Russian tanker, and the Mahadi, a British ship.

(During Betty Alder's absence on a vacation, May Christie, famous English authoress, will write on the activities of society folk.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Recent things I like to look back on! My sprightly conversation with Lawrence Tibbett, opera and screen star, at the reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Frank Chapman, last Tuesday, in order to meet the new Mrs. "Frank Jr." (Gladys Swarthout), at their home on Upper 5th Avenue.

The high spirits and extreme good humor evinced by Lawrence Tibbett, who declared that every time I encounter him I leave him unrefreshed. . . .

Myself congratulating Tibbett on his recent appearance on the newsworld warbling a racy song about Chasing Away Depression and Cheering Up Everybody. . . .

Whereupon he let out a roar of wrath like a wounded buffalo and said he would kill me if I ever again mentioned to him THAT performance. . . .

"But it was marvellous," I persisted innocently. "You looked like a happy boy of eighteen on the scene. . . . and the notes registered so high it just carried out the illusion of that age. . . . you know. . . . just before the voice is breaking. . . ."

Here Mr. Tibbett screamed with hilarity and mock fury. . . . and Gladys Edwards, who was with him, laughed heartily. . . .

The new Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett (this is her third matrimonial venture) had arrived and departed before Lawrence turned up. . . . I understand they are very happily married. . . .

Stage Role Comes True

MY TALK with handsome, brusque, Elmore Woolcott (Mr. Dorsey Richardson), at the time she has played innumerable Park Avenue roles on the stage, . . . and in portraying a Park Ave. role in real life. I thought her charming. She goes about a little differently.

"That good friend of the Chapman family, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Dr. being prevented coming to the reception, she sent Mrs. Douglas Robinson to represent her."

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Niles and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmerding Chamberlain, who were with her, . . . coterie around the punch bowl. . . .

Wear 'Ticket Vendor'

PRETTY MARY CAMERON, lately loaning to me the ticket in which all her friends force her to sell tickets of charity. . . .

"Wonder you take four $10 tickets from me now, please, Mary," for the Washington National Ball on May 21 in the Waldorf-Astoria? . . .

Another text that was extremely interesting was when I saw her in their beautiful house on Upper Madison Ave. by Dr. and Mrs. Both M. M. . . .

Idea Stirrs Adolescents

ATTRACTIVE Martha Adams, with whom I had a little tête-à-tête, is as enthusiastic about this new society as is her mother. . . .

The humorous repartee of all the speakers. . . .

My an-fellow later found out what is being done about the "Stage Society" . . .

The Park Avenue milled at this party. . . .

Jacket Craze Continues

By ROBERT ROE

New York, May 17.—The jacket craze which started early in the season shows no sign of a let up, being equalled by the continued demand for tailored suits of the kind which know how to be well-dressed.

The new suits are of various styles. The jacket lengths are all the same, the most notable waistline being the three-quarter style. And all of them are smart. Personally, I'd prefer either the new jacket or the new skirt. But the classic tailcoat is always a favorite. As for the skirt, it is a slightly faddish affair. And if you wear your suits for several years, you may look a little passé by next winter.

Murder of Lindy Baby Spurs Drive on Crime

The universal horror at the tragic fate of Colonel Lindbergh's little boy—the righteous anger that grips the nation—must, as soon as the people of this country regain self-possession, take the form of action—resolute, intelligent, driving action against the sway of crime.

The causes of the growing immunity of crime and criminals in the last few years in this country are correctly and generally understood. The festering ulcer of PROHIBITION is EVERYWHERE RECOGNIZED AS A PRIME BREEDER OF DISRESPECT FOR LAW AND THE PROCESSES OF CIVIL ORDER.

But there are other and perhaps more proximate and immediate explanations of the laxity in our pursuit and apprehension of malefactors.

The police organization of our States and our municipalities is to a great extent haphazard, improvised and ineffective.

We should have a co-ordination of the police and detective bureaus of the nation, so that the pursuit of criminals should have a unity of direction and country-wide correlation of means that would make fight difficult and escape impossible.

The detection and prevention sides of police work should be studied, scientifically developed and thus brought up to a standard of modern efficiency.

In many of our cities the number of effective officers available for patrol and guard duty is far beneath the proper strength. The forces of law and order, wherever understood, should promptly be reinforced.

BUT FIRST AND FOREMOST is the duty of separating police work and police administration from political interference or influence. This is the central vice of the situation.

The police must be made to feel THAT THEY ARE THE IMMEDIATE AND EXCLUSIVE SERVANTS of the community, with no concern but for the fearless and thorough performance of their duty—answerable to no power, not even the appointing power, and secure in their positions, so long as they discharge their task with singleness of mind and an undivided allegiance to their duty.

When the gangster loses confidence in adjournments, in reduced or suspended sentences, in the lenity of politically made judges and the protection of "justice" itself, the first step will be made in the conquest of crime.

SINCERITY, NOT THE FRUIT OF INSINCERITY, and the sincere pursuit of crime will only come when there is a sincere desire for its ruthless curb.

America is thinking on this, perhaps the greatest and most immediate of its problems—and thinking NOW in deadly earnest.

Estate Tax to Pay Bay State Has Experience

The people of Massachusetts consumed 50,000,000 gallons of gasoline last month and paid their State government a tax of $1,500,000.

Here is the sales tax in its simplest form, easy to collect, easy to pay.

Nobody grumbles, because it is paid a few pennies at a time, unlike the real estate and income taxes which whack the ordinary citizen a resounding thump in his pocketbook once or twice a year.

Nobody grumbles, because everybody recognizes that the tax is to be put to the useful work of reconstructing fast, modern highways required alike by commercial and pleasure cars.

The people are willing to pay for what they get.

They are willing to support their government, but they want their government to be managed economically and efficiently. They also want the government to derive a system of taxation by which they can support it without undue inconvenience and without undue hardship.

They want the sales tax to be a general sales tax, levied upon articles at a just and uniform rate granting favors to none and seeking out none for special, discriminatory, burdensome levies.

The people of Massachusetts and the United States have come to the idea of the sales tax after years of education and after years of serious deliberation by them.

Now that they regard it as the one equitable and convenient tax, they will insist upon it. Congress may falter and hesitate, but the people will stir Congress to its duty, sooner or later.

The Can-Opener Age

Two Coney Island wives who picketed bakeries because they thought bread prices were too high, were discharged by Magistrate Radack at his court. The attorney for the bakers' union, who had them arrested, suggested that if they didn't like the prices they could do their own kneading.

"Baking is a lost art in the home," sighed the Magistrate. "All a wife requires now is a telephone and a can-opener."

So the Coney Island wives went back to their picketing. Women are of the belief that if the art of wrestling with dough, forcing it into pans and ruining their complexions before a fiery stove, is lost, then so much the better. Comparatively very few ever mastered it, anyway. And it's time someone offered a kind word for the can-opener. It costs only ten cents, and it has emancipated more millions of women than has the ballot.

Windfall for Jobless

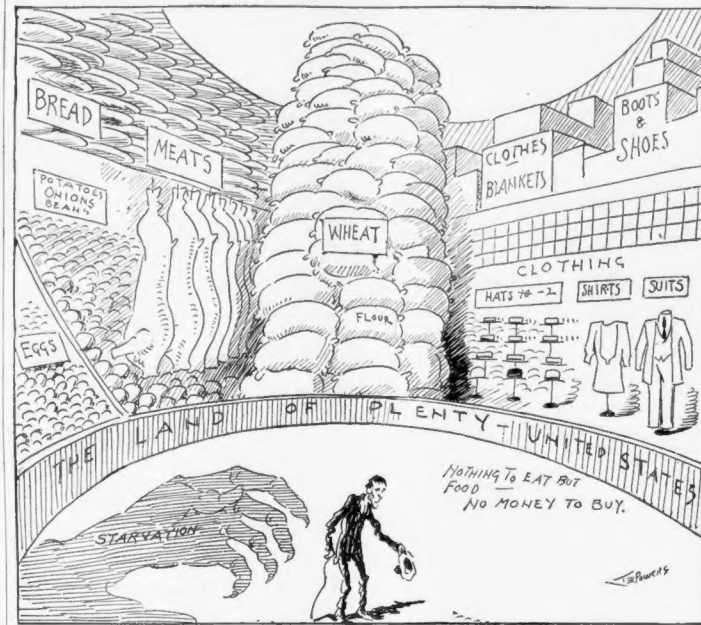

A rum-runner, with 30,000 pounds of fish as a camouflage, was brought into New York harbor.

Nobody wanted the fish. The dealers had all they needed. "But the unemployed haven't," said the newspaper reporters. So, they dug into their jeans, bought the fish and it was distributed among the poor by the Salvation Army.

Thank Heaven, someone thinks of the poor. In this case it was the alert news gatherers, who move among all classes of people. And know how "the other half" lives. Or merely exists.

Starving in the Storehouse

McIntyre New York Day by Day

Greenwich Village
NEW YORK, May 17.—Greenwich Village is becoming "villagery" again. The unwashed are returning to the attic. During boom years the New York Latin Quarter was threatened with absorption by the nouveau riche. A sudden apartment-house raid spread from Washington Arch.

Many tea rooms and walla shops that were the Shinto Shrine of long-haired thinkers are back in circulation. Mame Berlioz's is packed to capacity. The speakeasy is desolated by the tug of dry lips up and down.

If some of the old characters returned The Village would be little different from 15 years ago. Characters such as Tiny Tim, the vendor of "soul candy," Guido Bruno, the book-seller, Bobby Edwards, the cigar box salesman, Uncle, the cigar, cigar philosopher, and such.

Many living along sidewalk cafes of Montparnasse are back to the old haunts. Thugs are stretched among the expatriates over there. The sustenance provided against by tourists has dried up. Paris's Left Bank is the bleakest since the war.

Search defenders of The Village hope the renaissance will not result in the usual commercial exploitation by pseudo-artists who give the section its atmosphere of amusing sham. They believe it should be a real renaissance for the creative.

High rents forced much of The Village but they are near them. The Village but they are near them. The Village but they are near them.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Dare to Give Yourself!
YOU WANTED to say a kind thing this morning.

BUT YOU DIDN'T DARE. It seemed too impulsive.

You didn't know the other persons very well.

Maybe they'd think you were funny.

Or even impertinent.

And secretly laugh or scoff.

It would be terrible if they did that.

The fear of it.

And so you didn't say that kind thing you wanted to say.

So often it happens like this.

That's why you wanted to read yesterday.

How often it happens like this!

DARE TO GIVE YOURSELF!

Dare to give the love and laughter that bubble naturally within you.

That kindly unexpressed word may be a hand stretched down to help you out of hell.

And dare to share your pain! It is not a queer thing to do. It is the greatest compliment you can give another human—that sharing of grief.

There is a sort of sacred communion about it.

Do you remember when, as a child, you took your first communion—look, with wonder, that bit of bread, that sup of wine? Why? You did not understand.

But there, in that sacramental union, you felt something you had never felt before. Others were taking that wine and bread, too.

And there, in that communion, you felt something you had never felt before. Others were taking that wine and bread, too.

And there, in that communion, you felt something you had never felt before. Others were taking that wine and bread, too.

And there, in that communion, you felt something you had never felt before. Others were taking that wine and bread, too.

And there, in that communion, you felt something you had never felt before. Others were taking that wine and bread, too.

Five-billion-dollar Federal loan for public works and to reduce unemployment.

Washington Still Flounders

(Reprinted from the Paul Block newspapers of Saturday, May 14.)

The Senate amendment of the House tax bill broadening the proposed amusement tax to include 10 per cent on all admission tickets costing more than ten cents is a concrete example of the fact that the power to tax is the power to destroy.

The House had previously proposed a tax of 10 per cent on admissions costing more than forty-five cents. This would have injured the business of thousands of motion picture theaters and producing companies which are already losing tremendous sums, and now the Senate goes even farther than the House, proposing a tax on all tickets. This will definitely close thousands of theaters and will mean the virtual destruction of an industry which employs hundreds of thousands of people.

Even now without a tax it is estimated that half the motion picture theaters of the country are losing money because of lack of patronage to unemployment and reduced income. Of the 12,000 theaters now open, it is believed 5000, mostly neighborhood and small-town houses, will be forced to close. This will mean a loss not alone to the owners of the houses and their employees but also to the cities which collect really taxes on them. It will mean, too, a loss to the motion picture producers who, deprived of possibly half their already small market, will be forced to reduce operations, lay off more people, and contribute further to unemployment, while householders and stockholders scattered all over the country would see a further shrinkage in the values of their securities.

And the most ironic part of it all would be that the government would not receive the revenue it hoped to get even though it destroys an industry in the effort to get it.

The task of the men in Washington is admittedly difficult, but it would not be one-half so difficult if they would face facts.

The country must have the budget balanced, but not in a way that would destroy industry and help taxes.

Let taxes be raised equitably through a sales tax and a tax on legalized beer. These items alone would be sufficient to take care of the deficit. They would be generally popular. They would help revive employment and follow up a prosperity bond issue such as Senator Robinson has proposed, and which will bring the writer and other publishers have urged Congress to pass, the country would then definitely find an upturn in business. That a difference all this would make to the unfortunate eight or ten million people who are out of work for the many millions who have only part-time work and for the many business houses which are hovering between success and failure! The country demands action from Congress. Let us see that these demands are met.

PAUL BLOCK, Publisher.

A Prosperity Loan! No Hoover 'Plan'

By Claude C. Bowers

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY passed, and the Senate accepted, a tariff act asking the President to open negotiations for reciprocal action on the part of the nations to reopen the markets of the world to American products.

Three months were closed in because Mr. Grundy "raised a million dollars" for the Hoover "Plan" from among certain men and something having been thought, in his opinion, that private corporations have they cannot put men to work to fill the orders, and one case is cited. It would be interesting to know how many big corporations have big orders, but not make a loan. Is C. C. Bowers in that condition?

There is no assurance that any important part of that one billion will be asked on the ground that orders are falling in. He filed, The whole theory of the president's plan is based upon the theory that there is, or will be, a business revival and whether the jobs men get are just jobs or not depends upon there being a business revival in the future.

Under the presidential plan of opening jobs—he calls it his plan of "business revival"—not 50 per cent of the unemployed in New York City could find hope for a job.

He Hope It Not True

One billion is a recognition of the principle we have been advocating since last year. But it means that there is a gesture as far as getting anywhere with unemployment is concerned. The two billion dollar plan of Senator Wagner is not enough, but it is many times better; for it not only doubles the money but it is a gesture as far as it does not wait on the recovery of the business but it works operative. It becomes operative to work on public work—and public work of real value to the nation is a great national network of permanently improved highways done by private business a dividend in the work of the nation and keeps on paying the nation.

It would be an amazing thing to hope it is the Senate. Wagner's plan to dump the Wagner bill or some other more progressive property loan at the behest of the President's plan, stamped by their amazing and so indefensible that it is not true.

There laid, the President follows.

Others Lead, the President Follows

It is a matter of precedence in which we have become accustomed during the last three years of human misery.

The Democrats announced plans for governmental savings and the President followed. The administration immediately discovers it has a plan which has been a real secret for three years.

Thus the Democrats in the Senate let it be known one day that they will favor a prosperity loan of $4,000,000,000 denied the right to work in jobs; and the day the President, who has kept a dark secret all the time, announces the "President's plan" of $5,000,000,000.

There laid, the President follows.
